

Konstantinos P. Makaritsis, M.D., Ph.D was born in 1961 in Athens, Greece. He graduated in 1985 from the University of Patras School of Medicine, Patras, Greece. He received his Doctorate Thesis in Cardiovascular Medicine from the University of Athens School of Medicine, Athens, Greece in 1994. He has been awarded the ECFMG (USMLE) Certificate in 1995. He is also an Instructor in ATLS (Advanced Trauma Life Support) by the American College of Surgeons. He is a Fellow of the European Society of Hypertension (FESH) and a Fellow of the European Stroke Organization (FESO). He is a member of the Hellenic Society for the Study of Stroke, the American Heart Association, the Hellenic Society of Hypertension and the Hellenic Society of Internal Medicine. He was trained as a resident in Internal Medicine at the Department of Clinical Therapeutics, University of Athens School of Medicine, "Alexandra" Hospital, Athens, Greece. He was also trained as a postdoctoral Clinical & Research Fellow at the Boston University Medical Center, Department of Medicine, Section of Hypertension and Atherosclerosis, Boston, MA, USA. He has published 89 papers with more than 1793 citations and an author h-index of 22. He has also participated as a coauthor in 5 chapters in 3 books. He is currently serving as an Associate Professor of Internal Medicine at the Department of Medicine, University of Thessaly Medical School, Larissa, Greece and as Chief of the Hypertension and Lipid Disorders Outpatient Clinic at the Department of Medicine, University of Thessaly Medical School, Larissa University Hospital, Larissa, Greece.